VISUALIZATION FOR SEARCH:

STROLLING THROUGH INFORMATION LANDSCAPE

Thursday, May 10th
3:00pm - 4:00pm
Gallery Hall, TFDL

Marian Dork is a PhD candidate at the University of Calgary, where he works with his advisors Sheelagh Carpendale and Corey Williamson on information seeking and visualization.

Using the exploratory mindset of an urban flaneur as a lens, one can envision new ways of making information collections more explorable using interactive visualizations. In this talk, Marian will present the information flaneur and several visualization projects that are inspired by the positive model for information seeking.
